Penn Yan, NY – The Finger Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce hosted its October Business After Hours Networking Mixer on Wednesday, October 14, at Finger Lakes Power Systems of Penn Yan. Located at 3333 Skyline Drive, the event offered Chamber members a behind-the-scenes look into the business' warehouse space, with wine poured by Fox Run Vineyards and food provided by Keuka Lake Farm Market.

Finger Lakes Power Systems traces its roots to QwikSolar, where Dan Lewis began as a partner in 2014 before acquiring sole ownership in 2017. A seasoned electrician and native of the region, Lewis guided the company's transition into a full-service electrical contractor specializing in solar arrays, battery storage, and automatic standby generators. Today, the company serves residential, commercial, and agricultural clients throughout the Finger Lakes region, providing turnkey electrical solutions and custom off-grid systems.

During the presentation, Dan Lewis, Owner, talked about the growth the company has seen over the years, the current industry trends, and thanked his staff for their dedication and hard work. Scott Osbron, Owner of Fox Run Vineyards, talked about changes in the industry, the importance of working with community partners to help foster communal growth, and most of all, the significance of investing in marketing. Finger Lakes Area Chamber of Commerce President Miranda Odell closed the presentation by thanking those who came out and highlighting the unique approach of the FLX Chamber to showcase behind-the-scenes looks into businesses that customers don't usually have the opportunity to see, especially the trade-based businesses the FLX Chamber works so closely with.
